The search for your 2025 getaways starts here...

However you like to holiday - whether it's in a motorhome, caravan, campervan, tent, holiday home, or glamping - this compact, glovebox-sized guide has you covered with an abundance of fantastic getaway options for the entire year ahead!

To spark inspiration, we've organised sites by themes like 'adults only' and 'coastal', making it easy to find the perfect spot. For those travelling with pets, we've included a dedicated dog-friendly section to ensure your four-legged friends have a great holiday, too. Already have a region in mind? Simply flip to that section, where destinations are sorted by region and colour-coded for easy navigation.

Looking for an extra-special stay? Check out Premier Parks, our top-tier collection of high-quality campsites, starting on page six of this directory.

Wherever your travels take you in 2025, we're certain that this will be your go-to guide!

Claire Tupholme, Editor

A few helpful tips

- If a particular site facility is of importance, please check with that site before booking as some facilities can be seasonal.
- The prices listed reflect those for touring pitches, unless otherwise indicated. All prices and opening dates should be viewed as a guide only, and may be subject to change.
- For more information, regional guides, and to view a digital selection of campsites, head to our website, outandaboutlive.co.uk/campsites

The best dog-friendly beaches

rebeccaashworthearle/shutterstock

Holidays and beaches go hand in hand, and when you're taking your canine companion away with you it's handy to know what local beaches are dog friendly. The majority of the UK's 11,000-mile coastline has beaches that welcome dogs all year round, or from October to April, the quieter season.

Whether you're looking for a windswept expanse or a sheltered cove, check out six of our favourite dog-friendly beaches here.

Bamburgh

Backed by the dramatic presence of Bamburgh Castle (dogs are allowed within the castle grounds), the beach below offers vast expanses of golden sand that your dog will love the chance to race around on. Behind the beach are sand dunes and sandy hills, teeming with all sorts of fauna, flora, and insects. Looking out to sea, spot the Holy Island of Lindisfarne. Heading in a northerly direction along the beach will bring you to an area with plenty of rock pools for you and your dog to investigate.

Gail Johnson/shutterstock

Balnakeil

If it's spectacular and remote that you're hankering for, then the soft, powdery-white sands of Balnakeil Beach should fit the bill nicely. Situated near the northwestern tip of the Scottish Highlands, the wide, west-facing, crescent-shaped beach is backed by large, marram grass-covered dunes. Along with the clear blue water lapping up onto the beach, it can be easy to forget you are on the coast of Scotland, and imagine you are in some tropical paradise instead.

rphstock/shutterstock

Matthew Lamble/shutterstock

Hengistbury Head

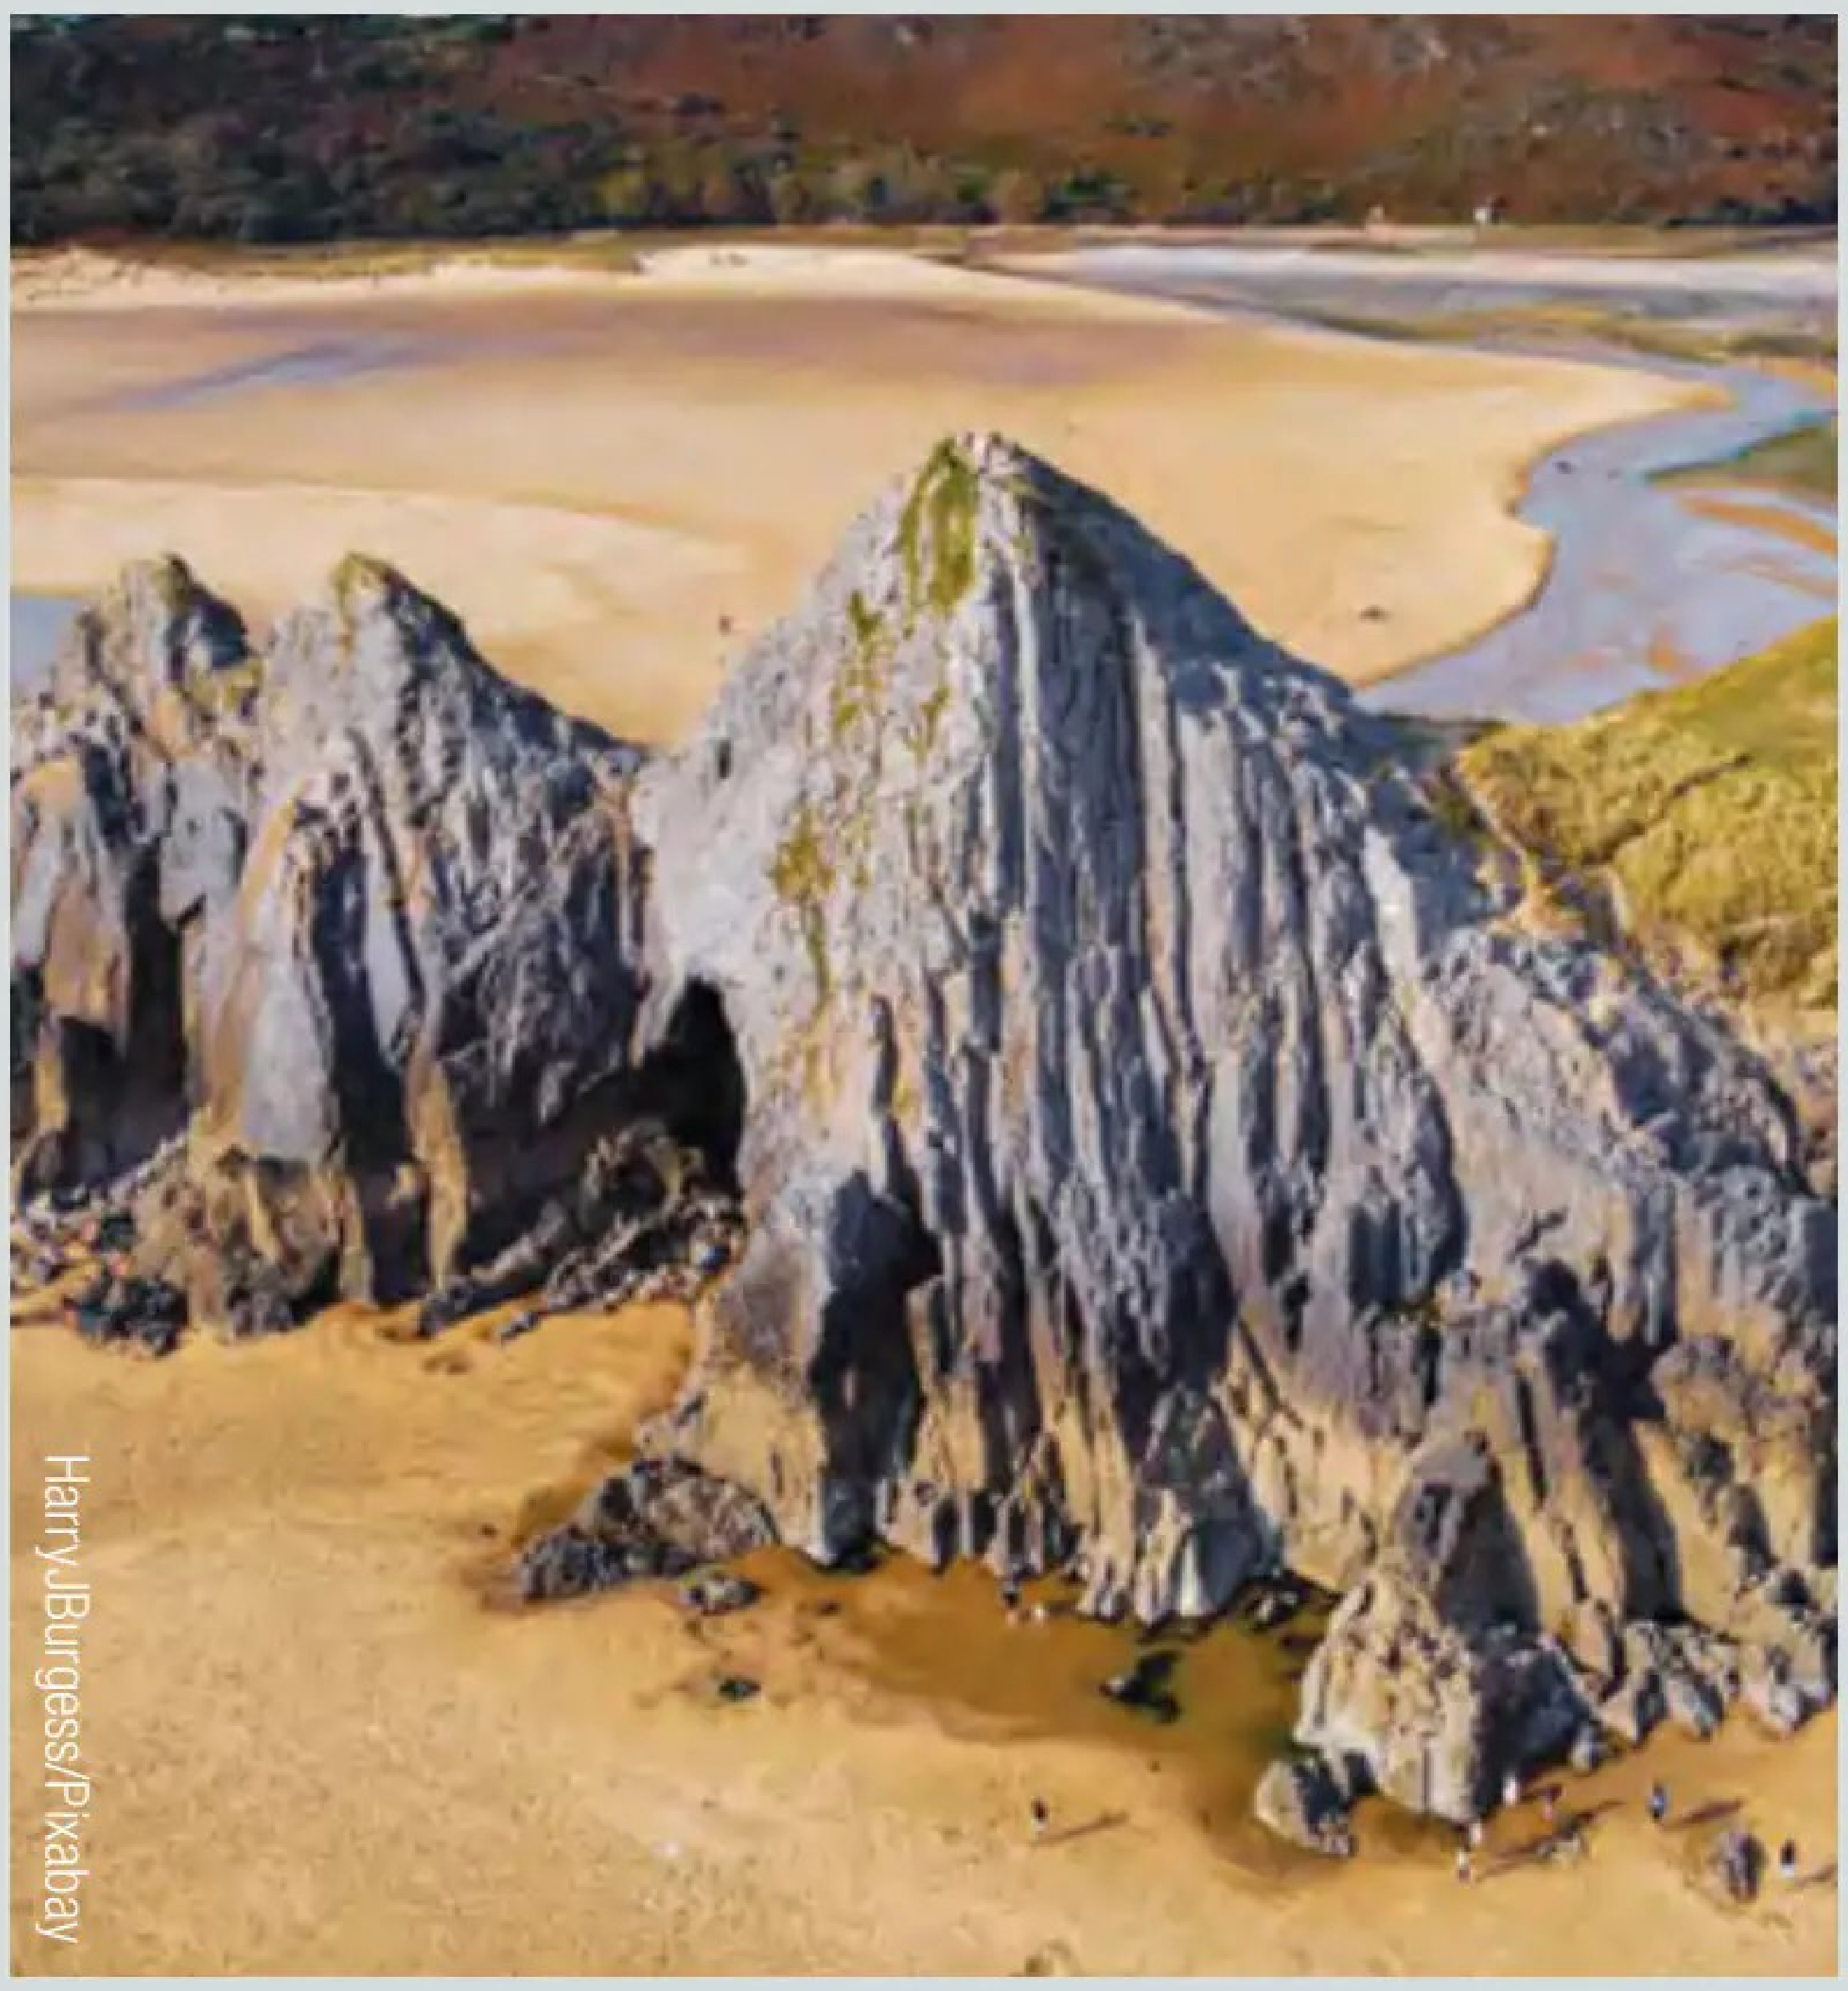
The unspoilt, south-facing shingle and pebble beach, enclosed by the cliffs of Hengistbury Head, is a favourite with nature lovers and walkers as well as dog owners. In addition to being a nature reserve, it is scheduled as a national monument, but well-behaved dogs are welcome all year round.

If you want to learn more about the area, the Hengistbury Dog Walking Trail is a perfect way to do it. The trail finishes with a stroll along the sand dunes and out onto the beach for a safe, fun, off-lead run. As an added attraction, you may also enjoy a ride on the dog-friendly Hengistbury Head Land Train which offers scenic views of the coastline.

Three Cliffs Bay

Located on the Gower Peninsula in south Wales, with sand dunes to the rear, and the three iconic limestone cliffs, which give the bay its name rearing up over an expanse of sand, which has a freshwater stream running through it, it's a beautiful beach.

However, take care if you're planning a dip in the sea, as there can be strong tides and currents. This is one of the most photographed beaches in Britain, so be sure to take your camera along to capture your own special views and memories.



HarryJBurgess/Pixabay

Holkham

One of the most unspoilt beaches in Norfolk, there are four miles of dog-friendly sandy beach to enjoy. One of the few beaches in Norfolk that permits dogs all year round, even on a busy day there is plenty of room for everyone, and it still retains a sense of peace and tranquillity.

When you've had enough of paddling in the sea and scampering on the beach, explore the pine woods along the edge; there is also a nature reserve, or you could take a walk together around the grounds of Holkham Hall.

Haverigg

Found at the mouth of the Duddon Estuary, you can enjoy fantastic views from this secluded beach. The shingle gives way to a vast sweeping expanse of sand, heading out towards the Irish Sea and just perfect for your dog to run around.

It's a tidal beach, so, to get the most from your visit, check that it's low tide before setting out. There are also lots of large sand dunes covered in sea grasses which your dog will have fun playing in, but it's a great place for seaside walkies, too.

Top tips for a doggy day at the beach

- Take a beach bag for your dog with all the supplies he'll need: water bowl, fresh water, towel, a few toys, poo bags, treats, pocket first aid kit, and dog-friendly suncream if your dog needs protection
- Swap your dog's usual collar for one that won't be damaged by salty seawater – although make sure it also has an ID disc
- Check whether the beach you want to visit is open to dogs. Although there are many dog-friendly places, some may implement summer bans on dogs
- Find out what facilities are available, such as dog-friendly places to eat
- Don't leave poo – it poses issues for the beach, water, and wildlife. Pick it up and dispose of it responsibly
- Respect other visitors; not everyone is a dog lover, and some dogs don't always appreciate other dogs wanting to play with them, so take care that yours doesn't bother other people or other canines
- Many beaches are also home to wildlife; don't let your dog disturb shore-nesting birds, seals and other creatures
- Obey any signs requesting that you put your dog on a lead in certain areas – there's usually a good reason for it

Carlyon Bay

This beautiful, family-run campsite abounds with exotic flowers, palms, and other trees on manicured lawns set in 30 acres of mature woodlands and meadow. This high-quality site is one of only a few in Cornwall to be awarded the AA Platinum Park grading. There's an on-site shop, outdoor heated pools, and free unlimited WiFi. From the site, Carlyon Bay beach is just a 10-minute walk, while 1½ miles further along the scenic coastal footpath is the historic port of Charlestown, home to working tall ships. The world-famous Eden Project is just over two miles away. Set in the 35-acre grounds of an old china clay quarry, this giant 'greenhouse' creation is very much at the top of the 'must see' list of attractions.
